FEEDBACK REPORT: ONLINE E-WASTE RECYCLING COMPETITION

The "Online E-waste Recycling Competition" organized by the Department of Computer Science, in collaboration with the Eco-Club and Swachhta Action Plan Cell (E-waste), successfully raised awareness about the critical issue of electronic waste (e-waste) and promoted sustainable solutions through recycling. Participants demonstrated commendable creativity and knowledge in developing innovative projects aimed at effective e-waste management. The competition's online format facilitated remote participation, ensuring safety amid the pandemic. Entries were evaluated based on criteria such as creativity, impact, feasibility, and sustainability, fostering a sense of responsibility towards the environment. This collaborative effort has inspired proactive measures to reduce, reuse, and recycle electronic waste, contributing to a cleaner and healthier environment. The initiative exemplifies the college's commitment to addressing global challenges and promoting sustainability.

REPORT: ONLINE E-WASTE RECYCLING COMPETITION

The Department of Computer Science, in partnership with the Eco-Club and the Swachhta Action Plan Cell (E-waste), spearheaded the "Online E-waste Recycling Competition," which successfully heightened awareness and prompted actionable solutions concerning electronic waste. This event highlighted the innovative spirit of participants who put forward creative projects focused on effective e-waste management. Hosted online, the competition enabled participants to safely engage from remote locations during the ongoing pandemic, thereby ensuring broad participation.

The entries were judged on creativity, impact, feasibility, and sustainability, emphasizing the importance of environmental stewardship. This evaluation process encouraged participants to think critically about the lifecycle of electronic products and the significance of adopting sustainable practices in daily life. The competition not only fostered a community of environmentally conscious individuals but also underscored the institution's dedication to tackling global environmental challenges.
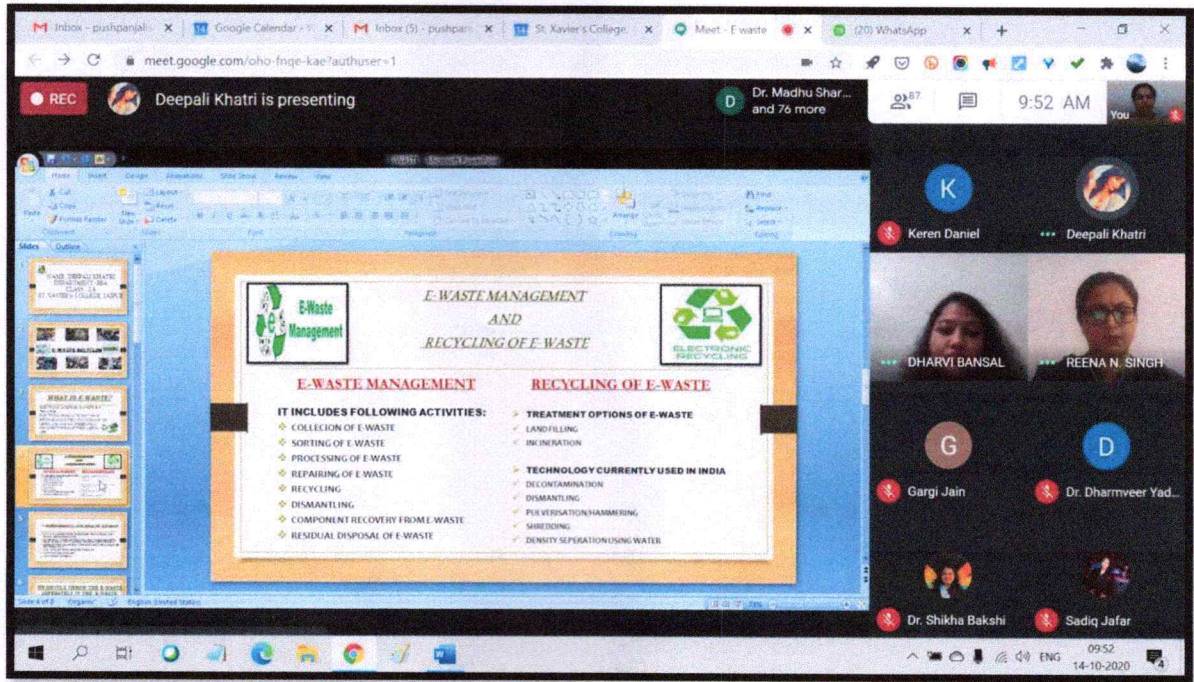

Overall, the initiative served as a platform for fostering environmental responsibility and demonstrated the college's commitment to promoting sustainable development. The collaborative effort between different campus groups illustrates a unified approach to environmental education and action, setting a precedent for future endeavours in sustainability and waste management.

FEEDBACK REPORT: PANEL DISCUSSION ON "THE PERSONAL DATA PROTECTION BILL, 2019- A VISION FOR FUTURE SECURITY

The Data Privacy Day event was highly enlightening, providing deep insights into data security. Students were highly satisfied with the practical session on data protection settings and appreciated the expert panel's in-depth discussions and responses during the Q&A round.

REPORT: PANEL DISCUSSION ON "THE PERSONAL DATA PROTECTION BILL, 2019- A VISION FOR FUTURE SECURITY

On the occasion of Data Privacy Day, the Department of Computer Science organized a Panel Discussion and a hands on experience session virtually on 28th January 2021 to create a conducive environment which safeguards personal data of one and all. The theme of the eventwas focused on - 'Personal Data protection Bill, 2019- A Vision for future Security', which pans out the realm of privacy and several new facets that get unearthed which play a vital rolein deciding the future of this domain. While Privacy Principles have been around for some time now, terms like Privacy Virtues, Privacy Ethics, Privacy Values are also making their presence felt.

Our principal, Rev Dr A Rex Angelo, initiated the panel discussion and highlighted the significant issues related to Data Privacy and the importance of keeping our data secure. The eminent speakers in the panel included Mr Aaron Kamath, Leader - International Commercial Law and Technology Law Practice of Nishith Desai and Mr. Chandan Singh Ghodela, Sr. Cyber Security Analyst at Cyberops Infosec LLP.

Mr. Aaron brought out the flaws how users accept privacy policy without reading the terms and conditions. He also said that the Russia uses in-house apps to ensure security of data within the country, and so also India in productions for telecom and banking sectors to keep data safe and writhing the country. The valuable insights and experiences shared by the panelists unraveled their dilemmas related to data privacy. There were various other topics that were discussed on Cia trade, Cryptography, privacy data breaching, Provision of information technology act-220 which was disabled for the last two months. Mr Chandan Singh also emphasized that data privacy is a Myth. At the end the hands on session carried outby Mr. Chandan was exclusive and knowledgeable who taught the traits on hacking and how to secure date through our privacy setting in google and Facebook accounts. Way, giving us a better way to articulate situations and lead a better living.

REPORT:
GUEST LECTURE ON SPECIFIC AND FOCUSED CAREER STUDY WITH A PROFESSIONAL CERTIFICATE

The Department of Computer Science organized its guest lecture on 30th January 2021 for the students of Bachelor of Computer Application on 'Python as the future of technologies. As one of the most popular programming languages across the globe, it offers promising career opportunities for students from IT background. The session focused on career opportunities with an additional professional certification which aims at bridging the academia - industry gap. The session was initiated by Mr Abhishek Jain, an IT Engineer in Java, Android, Python, Machine Learning, Data Science & Big Data Technologies with an experience of 15 years in the IT Industry and he highlighted the growing demand in Python programming which significantly cuts down on the total development which includes from data manipulation to data visualization. The second lecture was delivered by Mr Ritesh Jain, internationally certified professional in oracle database & Amazon web services with an experience of 15 years in IT Industry, who focused on the demand of AWS solutions Architect and the need of validating the Cloud Knowledge and Skills in the current IT scenario. Rev Fr Dr A Rex Angelo SJ congratulated Dr Vaishali Singh and the Department of Computer Science for having organized such useful programmes for students.
