FEEDBACK REPORT: EXPERT LECTURE ON “REWRITING THE NATIONAL NARRATIVE: POST- COLONIAL CONSTRUCTIONS”

Professor Sudha Rai's lecture on "Rewriting the National Narrative: Postcolonial Constructions" was highly acclaimed by both students and faculty of the Department of English. The discussion was engaging and enlightening, significantly enriching attendees' understanding of postcolonial literature. Students were particularly satisfied, appreciating the interactive and insightful nature of the lecture.

REPORT: EXPERT LECTURE ON “REWRITING THE NATIONAL NARRATIVE: POST-COLONIAL CONSTRUCTIONS”

On 26 August 2019, the Department of English, organised an expert lecture for post graduate students on “Rewriting the National Narrative: Postcolonial Constructions,” by Professor Sudha Rai, Professor Emeritus, Department of English, University of Rajasthan, Jaipur. Prof. Rai discussed postcolonial constructions and some crucial aspects of the repercussions of colonialism which has led to a metamorphosis of the critical field over the years. She also pointed out some important works like “Orientalism” by Edward Said, “Midnight’s Children” by Salman Rushdie, and “Wide Sargasso Sea” by Jean Rhys. The students as well as the faculty members of the department were enriched by Prof. Rai’s erudition. The students found the lecture informative and engaging and they endeavored to discuss rather than just to listen which gave the discourse a more communicative touch. Head of the Department, Dr. Atiq Kelsy , presented the vote of thanks.
